THE ANTI-SCOTT BRIGADE.

Hello! Hello!" said a World reporter to a leading anti-Scott Act man on Monday. "What about this trip that you and Kyle are going to take to Ottawa? Kyle says several hundred are going; what about it?" "Well," said the anti-Scott Act man, and he was one of the thoroughbred leaders, "I for one won't go. Those who will go are Kyle's tools—men who are in Kyle's hands, and dare not say boo to him.
I can tell you that it is a mistake.
What can Kyle do at Ottawa? He represents a few men who deal with him—men who listen to whatever clap-trap he may choose to tell them.
But one thing I can tell you is this:
the best and most responsible anti-Scott Act men won't go—why should they? Sir John will follow public opinion; and let me tell you, sir, that at the present time the premier is not going to be bull-dozed by any deputation that Mr. Kyle may lead to Ottawa." And so The World left this anti-Scott Act man in anything but a good frame of mind.

But Mr. Kyle and his friends take a different view of the proposed delegation. Said a woman friend of Mr. Kyle's Monday: "Yes, Mr. Kyle deserves every credit for the manner in which he has organized this thing. He has been in direct communication with every householder from Ottawa to Waukegan, and we shall have a big deputation. Sir John will have to listen to our demands. We are too strong for him.
He will not dare refuse us."

From all that can be gained from other sources it is learned that Mr.
Kyle has been in communication with Mr. Carling and Mr. Castigan, who have undertaken to guarantee that an interview will be granted by the premier to the deputation. But this is by no means certain. Sir John is to a certain extent (looking at it from a domestic point of view) controlled in matters of this kind by Lady MacDonald, who at present takes a leading part in temperance matters at the capital. If Lady MacDonald says "No," Mr. Kyle and his deputation will return home sadly disappointed. Mr. Kyle has with the most untiring perseverance had committees appointed from all the leading towns and villages in Ontario.
From Orangeville comes the prime, white-choked country Crown attorney, J. P. McMillan, one of Mr. Mowat's appointees, who heads from the county of Dufferin a deputation who will lay at the feet of Sir John a humble petition in favor of Sir John Peter's principal friends and supporters. From Guelph comes Geo. Bookless, who is in appearance a second edition of the "dry preacher." But not one of the entire deputation dare tell him so. From Toronto goes, according to Mr. Kyle's published programme, Leon Fisher, M. McConnell, Harry
Hughes, Jim Douglass, Jack Solides,
John Spence, Pat O'Connor, Sam
Richardson, and last but by no means least, the gallant Major Dawson of the "Boatmen." "I shall go myself," said Mr. Dawson, and in The World's column that settled the question.
All other places are well represented.
On the whole Mr. Kyle's big mammoth, greatest effort of his life, anti-Scott picnic to Ottawa, promises to be one of the biggest events of the season.—The World.

WINNIPEG.—The W. C. T. U. employs a Bible woman constantly and with good results. Scott Act work is going on slowly. The city has made a great effort in civic affairs, and after a severe struggle, has elected a temperance Mayor and council. This argues well for the future.—H. Y. in Woman's Journal.

MANITOBA.—The Royal Templars of temperance, Grand Council of Manitoba, have just been in session at Winnipeg. We extract the following paragraph from the report on temperance work: "We are also pleased to observe that the work of preparing for the submission of the Scott Act to the popular vote of all the counties and cities in the province of Manitoba is progressing very favorably, in some places all the resident voters having signed the petitions. We understand it is the general intention to have the vote submitted all over the Province as nearly as possible simultaneously; and from reports coming from the different localities we have reason to believe that the act will be adopted by large majorities."

PROVINCIAL, Manitoba.—The Rev.
Mr. Allen, the agent of the Manitoba Alliance, has been visiting Dominion City; he gave a very instructive address to a large audience, and the whole meeting stood up when asked to show who would assist in passing the Scott Act.

THE GRANGER'S REVENGE.

A farmer from Southern Wisconsin was inquiring if any one knew where there were any diseased hogs, played-out horses or sick cattle for sale. He was eyed suspiciously by the other passengers until he exclaimed:

"Oh, I don't want them to sell to butchers, I'm not in that kind of business."

"What in the world can you want of diseased critters, then?"

"Well it's this way. I don't mind telling you if you don't repeat it, any of you. Two years ago I got on a train on a railroad that runs through my farm. I had no ticket and the conductor made me pay ten cents more than the regular fare; I appealed to the courts but got beat.
The newspapers ridiculed me too.
You all know how the great corporation monopolies rob the poor, immoral and vicious people, and then by controlling the courts and the press are able to keep us out of our own As one of the honest but depressed people I was determined to have revenge."

"For nearly a mile that road runs through my farm, and there isn't a ton of that trash that hasn't the blood of some of my poor horses and cattle on it. It beats all the way my critics do on that track and got killed. Of course I got pretty good damages out of the company, but it is not pleasant to run a slaughter house and a farm too. Still I rather guess I've got back that ten cents and all of the court costs I had to shell out. Say Smith, I'll give you $10 for that old blind-staggered wind-blown toad of yours, and the half of all over $75 I got for him, if you'll try and get around and serve on the assessment committee. Is it a go.—Chicago Herald.

THE QUESTION OF THE DAY.

"What is good for a cold?" is a question often asked, and seldom satisfactorily answered. We can answer to the satisfaction of all, if they will follow our advice and try Hag-yard's Peppermint Cure, a safe, pleasant and certain throat and lung healer. Sold by all druggists.

A FIRST REQUISITE.

To awaken sympathy or desire in another the first thing to possess it in a large measure ourselves. We cannot communicate what we do not possess, and if our hearts are not alive and warm with the love of right if we are not unsympathetic with the truth and terrified ones, if we cannot earn some idea of his condition, and of his difficulties, we cannot hope to reach his heart or to create within a single wish for better things.
We may instruct them in the wisdom of all the schools, we may explain to him the principles of good and evil conduct, we may set forth the consequences that follow each, we may exhort and urge; but, so long as we are ourselves not throughout with desire or quick with sympathy, we cannot reach the springs which alone can animate him to reform his life.

BRANDON ASSIZES.

His Lordship's Charge to the Grand Jury.

Only Two Criminal Cases on the Docket—A True Bill.

The assizes for the Western Judicial District opened at ten o'clock yesterday morning, when His Lordship, Chief Justice Wallbridge, charged the Grand Jury as follows:

Gentlemen of the Grand Jury:—The manner in which you have to perform your duties is pretty accurately pointed out in the oath which you have just taken. You are called the grand inquest, and as such you have to diligently enquire and a true presentment make of all such matters and things as shall be given to you in charge. You must keep secret all that transpires in the Grand Jury room. In anything that you shall present to the court, you must not be actuated through any hatred, malice, fear, favor or affection. These of course are nothing more than what should be expected from honest and honorable men in the discharge of serious duties. The Grand Jury is an important factor in the administration of criminal justice. They stand between the prosecution and the accused not to favor the one or unduly protect the other; but to see that no infraction of the law is perpetrated with impunity, and that justice should be righteously dealt out to all parties. While in criminal offences the injury is generally committed against some particular member of the community the prosecution is made in the name of the Queen, because the Queen is considered as the dispenser of justice and conservator of the peace of the kingdom, and because as the head and personification of authority she exercises the supreme functions of protecting the persons and property of her subjects. The prosecution although in the name of the Queen is made in the interest of society. If a man assaults his neighbor and causes him some bodily harm his unlawful act gives rise to two rights of action against the offender, one criminal and one civil. The criminal part of the act is considered as committed against society in one of its members, and against the peace and dignity of the Crown. The civil or pecuniary loss sustained by the party aggrieved in consequence of the said criminal act, can be prosecuted by himself in the criminal court, and gives him right to recover damages as compensation for the injury.

The grand jury have nothing to do with the civil injury or damages. They are only called upon to inquire whether a criminal offence has been committed, and whether the accused is the party who has committed it. If the evidence establishes these two facts, they have to find a true bill, and the accused is put upon his trial. In the generality of cases the offence has already been investigated before a magistrate but the grand jury are there, as peers of the accused party to examine and enquire into the proof of his guilt, and if they find that he has been unjustly accused or committed without sufficient evidence it is their duty to prevent an innocent man from undergoing the humiliation of standing in the criminal docket, on a criminal trial, for an offence of which he is not guilty.

The number of grand jurors should not be more than twenty three, nor less than thirteen, and twelve of them must agree in order to find a true bill. They hear only the evidence for the prosecution, and on that evidence they must be satisfied of the guilt of the accused before they put him upon his trial, while they should be careful to protect the alleged offender against any unjustified prosecutions they must also see to the protection of society against the lawlessness and notorious act of criminals. If the witnesses for the Crown establish the guilt of the accused, the Grand Jury owe it to society who look to them for protection against crime, they owe it to themselves under the solemn oath that they have taken to return a true bill and send the prisoner to stand his trial under a petty jury. There he will again receive all the protection the law has put around him, he will have an opportunity of making a full and complete defence and of showing his innocence if he is not guilty. He cannot be committed before twelve more of his peers, after hearing the evidence for the defence as well as for the prosecution, have declared him guilty of the offence of which he is charged.

After so stating the general outlines of your functions, I have great pleasure in telling you that your duties will be very light. I understand that there are only two offences to be investigated, one for larceny and one for receiving stolen goods.

Larceny is the unlawful taking and carrying away of some personal property, with intent to deprive the lawful owner of the same. It must also be done without the owner's consent. The taking and carrying away does not mean that the goods should be removed from the premises of the owner. The least removing or displacing of the thing taken from the place where it was before is sufficient. But the taking and carrying away alone does not in itself constitute the offence of larceny. The real ingredient of crime is the intent to deprive the owner of his property without his consent whether the offender appropriates it to his own use or whether he gives it away or destroys it makes no difference, if he intends to deprive the owner of it without his consent the act is criminal.

As to receiving stolen goods, in order to constitute the offence the party found in possession of stolen property must know that it is stolen. Before the guilt can be established, the guilty knowledge must be proven.

Besides investigating offences, it is your province to visit and inspect the gaol and report to the court the result of your investigation.

With these remarks, you may retire into your room and commence your labors.

A TRUE BILL.

Queen v. Elizabeth Boy—The prisoner is charged with stealing a roll of carpet from the store of Bowyer, Blackburn & Co., of Brandon, about two years or more ago. On the preliminary examination before the police magistrate the only evidence against the prisoner was that the carpet was found in her possession, and was identified by Mr. Mandle as the piece which had been lost by them, but no evidence was offered of the actual taking, and there was nothing to convict the prisoner with the taking except the finding of the carpet in her possession. The Grand Jury returned a true bill.

March 19.—Bangs v. Parker; was decided in favor of Parker in the court of assizes to-day. Mrs. Bryant was acquitted. Vivian v. Plaxton is now on, and will take three days to finish. The Grand Jury presented their address to-day, recommending the continuance of Judicial district courts, but they consider that they should be managed economically.

A HEARTY RECOMMENDATION.

Jacob A. Empey, of Canmore, states that he has taken Burdock Blood Bitters with great benefit in a lingering complaint, and aids that he would gladly recommend it to all.

OAK LAKE.

Our respected Reeve Mr. Robert Sutherland, gave a "social" at his residence, on the 10th inst., and, it being an unusually interesting and unusually successful one, some particulars may not be out of way.

The "social" is I believe indigenous to this continent and one of the peculiarities of this country, and, as far as Manitoba is concerned, these social gatherings deserve every commendation;—it gives the people an opportunity of meeting together in such intimate and friendly intercourse as would be accomplished in no other way.

This particular gathering was unusually interesting, from the fact that a large number of the fair sex graced the meeting with their presence; and, because the object to which the proceeds were devoted concerned a considerable number of the people in the neighborhood, namely: the payment of a donation towards the expenses incurred by the Presbytery for spiritual aid rendered by the missionaries of that society. The meeting was an unusually successful one, from the very excellent arrangements made by the hostess and her amicable daughters for providing and serving the banquet, any other term will give any adequate idea of the luxuries so abundantly furnished, so artistically, and skillfully prepared, and also from the good nature which characterized the whole proceedings. Every person present appeared to be thoroughly happy, and the host and hostess and their family, were the happiest of them all, in their large hearted hospitality.

After all present had partaken of the good things provided, Mr. Arch Speers was called to the chair, and in his cheery way, made a few remarks upon the business on hand; the entertainment then commenced with "Go search in my vineyard," which was carefully sung by the Griswold choir. The chairman was next called upon for a speech, he however, seemed so overcome by the presence of so many ladies that he made only a few remarks inveighing against bachelors in general, and the bachelors present in particular, in fact he so far forgot himself as to "wish he was young again."

A duet was then sung by Mr. and Mrs. W. G. Knight, "Ye mariners of England," this national song was well received, and elicited some eulogistic remarks from the chairman.

The chairman then introduced Mr. Baker as the best looking man in the room, although married—Mr. Baker was understood to say that there might be a considerable difference of opinion among the ladies on this point, particularly the married ladies—it is hard to say what the exact drift of the chairman's ideas might be in this it may however, have had some connection with his wishing to be young again. Mr. Baker then gave a reading which received great attention; Mr. Albertson then followed with a comic song and in response to an encore gave a second one.

Miss Speers next recited very effectively "The curlew shall not ring to-night," the recitation was listened to with marked attention, and was followed by an encore when Miss Speers favored the company with another recitation. Then came a part sung by the choir, followed by a song from Mr. Speers, and then a speech from Mr. Bachmann, who like the chairman "went for the bachelors."

Miss Ryan then sang "Who's that tapping at the garden gate," in artistic style, and received well merited applause. The Rev. Peters next gave a speech, he started by taking the side of the bachelors to a certain extent; he, however, broke down on that point, and finished by telling of Mungo Parke's experience in Africa, and this showing portend what miserable objects men are when left to themselves.

A duet "all's well," by W. G. Knight, R. L. Lang, followed, and then came a speech from Mr. W. C. Speers on behalf of the bachelors;—Mr. Speers is evidently an old hand at debating, and spoke very effectively, although he was exceedingly careful not to say much,—it must be said however that Mrs. Speers appeared to enjoy the stand her husband took immensely.

Mrs. Dalmeage's performance on the organ which was next on the programme, was very neatly executed. Mrs. Dalmeage and Miss Ryan then sang the duet "The Gipsy Countess," very carefully, it was thoroughly appreciated. The choir followed with a part sung "Wait till the clouds roll by." Mrs. Speers rendering the treble solo very effectively.

Mr. Edie Dickson then spoke on behalf of the bachelors, his competitors; he commenced a vigorous defence, but on looking around, the sight of so many ladies was too much for him, his heart failed him—and he finished his peroration by appealing to the ladies for pity and sympathy. Mr. Albertson then gave another of his comic songs, in his own peculiar comic way, and was loudly cheered. Mr. Fort also gave a comic song.

Mr. Gillespie favored the company with a real nice scotch song, "My ain Scotch name," and Mr. Speers followed with a characteristic Irish song, they were carefully sung, and well received. The entertainment concluded with "God save the Queen."

BURLINGTON ITEMS.

Spring trade is getting lively. Merchants are active in shipping in their goods via M. & N. W. Railway, which is at present only built as far as Minnedosa, but will be at Shoal Lake about the 1st of July.

Minnedosa, Newdale, Marney, Burlington, Birtle and Shoal Lake.

The assessor is through with his tramp, and will give up his books to the council, which meets tomorrow at the Queen's hotel.

Real Estate is very active here now, in prospects of the early construction of the railroad through Burlington. Two lots exchanged hands here yesterday, for $150.00 each.

ROLLER SKATING.

How Donovan Came to Enter For, And Win, The Six Days' Race.

An Elmira, N. Y., despatch to the New York Tribune thus tells the story of how young Donovan of that city, came to win the six days' race, the $500 cash, and gold medal studded with diamonds:—

"Sporting circles have been greatly excited the past few days over the wonderful feat of Donovan in the skating contest in New York, and when it became known that he would probably be the winner, their enthusiasm knew no bounds. Wm. Donovan is a son of Timothy Donovan, an employee of the Erie Railway here, and relative of Jeremiah O'Donovan, better known as O'Donovan Rossa, of New York. Wm. is 17 years of age, a shoemaker by trade, but has worked little since the introduction of the skating craze. He had entered and won several local short-distance matches here, but little was thought of entering him in the six days' go-as-you-please match. Donovan and a few boys came talked over the six-day contest, and they urged him to enter the race. He said he had nothing to go with, but would try if he could get an outfit. The boys were determined thenceforward that Donovan should undertake the task. One of the boys Wm. O'Connell, accordingly purchased for him an undershirt, suitable for skating in, and lent him a silk handkerchief and a cap. "Genie" McManus bought him a pair of ball shoes and a belt. "Josh" Sullivan gave him a cap, and John Johnson furnished him a pair of knee breeches. When everything was ready Patsy Tobin, who himself has hotly contested several races with Donovan, lent him an overcoat, and John Bolan let him take his satchel. The boys then raised seven dollars for him, and "Dan" Lynch gave enough to land him safely in New York, and have a little left over. Borrowing three pairs of skates from Mike Flahive, Jack Moran, and Genie McManus, Donovan started for New York Friday morning, February 26, carrying with him the best wishes of the few in this city who knew of his going aside from those who gave a share of their own to send him there. Young Donovan on reaching New York was alone and friendless, but as is known soon forged to the front and made many friends. Now the sports look upon him as a bigger man than the bruiser from the Hub. On his return to Elmira he will have a reception, the managers, employees, professional skaters and amusement people generally, are expected to take part.

"Men."

"Men?"

"Yes."

"How do you mean?"

"I'm the sheriff. Yanked in ten last week. Goin' to the next county for a hoss this morn'g. 'Cell him son's I ketch him. Call 'em all in the same cutaboose. Haw, haw," and the sheriff jumped up hastily and brought a glass of water to sprinkle on the fainting traveller's face.

Brandon Weekly Mail,

THURSDAY, MARCH 26, 1885.

TO OUR SUBSCRIBERS.

We have now completed such arrangements with the publishers of Health and Home, a first-class family paper, as will enable us to give it free next year, to those subscribers of the Mail who pay up all arrears and remit $2.00 for the year just entered upon. With this issue we send out statements to all in arrears to any extent, and shall look for a prompt response. Those who prefer the Toronto Mail or the Toronto News to Health and Home, can have either clubbed with our paper at $2.50; in short we will give any other publication desired with the Mail, at a considerable reduction off the face value of both. We are fully aware that times are hard and money difficult to be got, and this is our chief reason for making a reduction in the regular price of our paper. It should also remind our readers that a newspaper cannot be run on the wind. We have a weekly outlay of very nearly $100 in wages, rent, fuel and printing materials that must be met by prompt payments, which prevent us giving the credit for subscriptions many seem inclined to take. We must insist on a prompt settlement of all arrears, and make this offer as an extra incentive.

THE RUSSIAN ADVANCE.

Mme. Novikoff's Interview with an Eminent Russian.

MISTAKES ON BOTH SIDES IN AFGHANISTAN.

Mme. Novikoff, writing to the Pall Mall Gazette says:—I have just had a most interesting conversation with one who is of the highest authority on all matters relating to the foreign policy of our empire. He was very much pleased with the fairness and justice of your brief note Mr. Goschen's reference to the negotiations about the northwest frontier of Afghanistan, and I asked him to tell me quite frankly the certes certes about our alleged advance on Herat. "The question," he replied, "is as simple as possible.

WE DO NOT WANT HERAT, and we cannot get it. If we seized it, it would bring us immediately into conflict not only with the Afghans but also with Persia not to speak of England." "But," I rejoined, "have we not already made a forward movement which we thought unnecessary?" "Yes," he answered, "but do you not know how that came to pass? Unfortunately, Sir Peter Lumsden has taken with him two or three young fellows, like Mr. Stephen, who speak Russian, and imagine that they serve their cause, or the cause of England, by inciting the Afghans to occupy positions far in advance of their own frontier. The Afghans acting under the instigation of these young Englishmen, occupied a position at Penjbeh, in territory which had never been under Afghan rule, either in the time of Sher Ali or of Dost Mohammed, and which all the travellers, and they are very few, who have visited that region, from the Englishman Abbott downward, described as belonging to the Khanate of Khiva. Our military people, hearing and seeing everything EVIDENCES OF ENGLISH HOSTILITY, and English intrigues, immediately responded to the Afghan advance by a further advance on their own account, and they went further than was either useful or prudent. Thus a mistake has been made on both sides, but the initiative has been taken by the English, or by those among them who pushed the Afghans forward to go where no Afghans had ever been before—in the midst of a purely Turcoman population within the dominions formerly belonging to the Khan of Khiva.

"There the English were wrong," he continued, "but nearly every body here made a mistake in fancying that they were also wrong in sending so great an escort with Sir Peter Lumsden. People fancy that he brought it with the sole desire to oust the Russian Commissioner, and so to gain more prestige among the Afghans. It is a positive mistake. The English were obliged to send an escort in sheer self-defence. Unless they were well protected the Afghans would attack them. Gen. Zoransky," he concluded my visitor, "is so far to the eastward Asia and to be ready for the rendezvous; but unless England accepts the zone pointed out as the natural frontier by the economical conditions of the region in question, the meeting of the Commissioners will come to no result. Very few people know anything about these regions and there is no perfectly correct man that can be had as a guide."

All of which is respectfully submitted.

J. M. ROBINSON,
Chairman.

Report was adopted.

WHAT MR. VAN HORNE DID SAY.

I have waited some time to learn from your journal the true statement regarding the interview between Mr. Van Horne and the City Councilors, but I failed to find any account in the Guardian. In view of the unfair use made a garbled statement published in the "Columbian," which I conceive very likely to mislead the public, I have come to the conclusion that the best thing to be done is to send you a true statement, so as to allow your readers to judge for themselves. Some portions of the interview have been published or repeated by persons who have presented so frequently, as to make them sufficiently well known, so that it will only be necessary for me to put in what has been studiously left out. On Mr. Van Horne being asked whether the extension to English Bay would affect Port Moody, he laughed heartily. He said that "Port Moody was the most important point in the whole inlet. The Dominion Government was about to expend a very large amount of money in the construction and completion of a proper terminus at Port Moody, and that they (the company) would expend a still larger amount at that place when the Government had finished their work according to agreement, which must be done at once. The only fault to be found with Port Moody was its confined area. The intention is to run a branch down to the North Arm opposite to Port Moody, and build wharves up to the shallows and build ships across the shallows at the head of Port Moody, and then continue down the South side. About 12 miles would be wanted, so that the whole of the Inlet would be required. The line would be extended down the South side of the Inlet eventually, for the convenience of removing freight, but if satisfactory arrangements were concluded with the local Government for as much land as they would require, they would build an extension from above Pitt River down to the lower end of Burrard Inlet, as it could be made at much less cost by way of the lakes than by the South side of the Inlet. Therefore, it respects to the enquiry of the Council touching the line to connect this city with Port Moody, it will be well for the Council to wait the result of (Mr. Van Horne's) report to the Directors, so that if an extension to English Bay was decided on, the city might be connected with our line—the extension to English Bay. The means to build the extension must be raised by the issue of terminal lands—a very precarious proceeding in the present state of the market. He (Mr. V. H.) did not come here to decide anything, but merely as a servant, to inspect the proposition of the whole affair and report to ten others, who will consider his recommendations and come to a decision at an early date, regarding the extension and the spur to New Westminster."

ONE OF THE COMMITTEE.

[Our readers will observe that Mr. Van Horne never mentioned "Gold Harbor"—the line to English Bay—as our line, that is, the line which Mr. Van Horne and his friends will make if they see money enough in it. He never used the word "terminus," and if the line is made to the English Bay it will only be for heavy freight—steel rails, steel bridges, or such freight as could be carried profitably by large steamers. The whole of Port Moody will be required for mail steamers, and to accommodate them, both sides of that harbor will be lined with wharves and the railway brought down on each side to afford the proper facilities for discharging and loading. The flats will be all occupied with slips to take out the waterfrontage, and we suspect, Mr. Van Horne notwithstanding—that they will have all the space they require, for a number of years after the railway is completed. The whole essence of the interview resolves itself into this; we can't make any branch; there's nothing in it. The other fellows want us to make an extension to English Bay, and we'll do it if we're paid for it, and a good margin besides, but I think that the building of the extension is very unlikely as money is too tight at present and railway stocks too low—

ED. GUARDIANS.

We may state that we never had the shadow of a doubt that the terminus of the Canadian Pacific Railway, on the Pacific, is fixed for all time at Port Moody. That spurs and branches will be made from time to time, we are prepared to believe, but the great city of the future is inevitably destined to occupy the site now known as Port Moody.

VITAL QUESTIONS.

CHAPTER I.

Ask any or all of the eminent physicians: "What the best and only remedy that can be relied on to cure all diseases of the kidneys and urinary organs; such as Bright's disease, diabetes, retention or inability to retain urine, and all the diseases or ailments peculiar to women?"

Ask the same physicians: "What is the most reliable and surest cure for all liver diseases or dyspepsia, constipation, indigestion, biliousness, malaria, fever, ague, &c., and they will tell you:

"Mandel's or Doan's!"

Hence, when these remedies are combined with others equally valuable, and compounded into Hop Bitters, such a wonderful and mysterious curative power is developed, which is so varied in its operations that no disease or ailment can possibly exist or resist its power, and yet it is:

Harmless for the most frail woman, weakest invalid or smallest child to use.

CHAPTER II.

"Almost dead or nearly dying."

For years, and given up by physicians of Bright's and other kidney diseases, liver complaints, severe coughs, callos consumption have been cured.

Women given nearly crazy from agony of morbid nervousness, wakefulness and other diseases peculiar to women.

People drawn out of shape by excruciating pains of rheumatism, inflammatory and chronic, or suffering from scurvy.

Erysipelas?

Salt rheum, blood poisoning, dyspepsia, indigestion and in fact almost all diseases fatal.

Nature is heir to Have been cured by Hop Bitters, proof of which can be found in every neighborhood in the known world.

TALMAGE ON SPECULATION.

If you want to take your own money and put it into kites to fly on the common or into pipes to blow soap-bubbles, you may do so without wronging society especially, unless your helpless children are tumbled into the poor house to be taken care of by the public, and they probably will be; but you have no right to take the property of others and turn it into kites to fly and soap-bubbles to blow. There is one word that has dragged down more people into bankruptcy and State prison and perdition than any other word in the commercial world, and that is the word "borrow." The world is responsible for nearly all the defalcations, embezzlements, and financial consternations of the last four months and of the last forty. When an executor takes money out of a large estate to speculate with it he does not perjure it: He only "borrows" it. When a banker makes an overdraft that he may go into speculation, he does not commit a theft, he only "borrows." When some manager of a large financial institution, through flaming advertisement in some religious paper, or gilt-edged certificates, gets country people to put their money into some enterprise for carrying on an undeveloped nothing, it is not a fraud he only "borrows." When a young man having easy access to a drawer, or a confidential clerk having easy access to the books, takes a certain amount of money, and with it he makes a Wall Street excursion, he is going to put it back pretty soon, he only "borrows." Why when you are going to do wrong, pronounce so long a word as the word "borrow," a word of six letters, when you can get a short word, a word more descriptive of the reality, a word of only five letters the word "steal."

Petitions in favor of bonus for grist mill at Oak Lake were presented.

Dickson and Sutherland, that no action be taken in this question, until the decision of the Municipality of Woodworth, on the same subject, be known.
